

Enhancing Research Skills: EBSCO Online Training Session Held at Pathribagh Campus February 23, 2026

An online training session on the effective use of the EBSCO Information Services database was organized at the Pathribagh Campus for research scholars and faculty members.

The session was conducted by Mr. Ritish Kumar Jha, Senior Training Manager at EBSCO Information Services, who provided valuable insights into advanced search techniques, the identification of high-impact journals, and best practices for publishing quality research. He also demonstrated how AI-driven search tools can enhance research precision, streamline literature reviews, and support evidence-based academic work.

Participants actively engaged in the session, raising queries and discussing various aspects of academic research and database utilization. The workshop concluded with a vote of thanks and enthusiastic participation from the attendees, reflecting the University's commitment to promoting research excellence and technological awareness among its students and scholars.
