

A Journey of Discovery: Young Learners Experience the Library

A group of senior secondary students from different schools and cities visited the LIRC Pathribagh Campus in the month of January 2026 to gain exposure to its resources, facilities, and services. The visit was marked by enthusiasm, curiosity, and a genuine eagerness to learn. As the class Senior Secondary students entered the LIRC Pathribagh Campus, they were captivated by its rich collection of books, journals, and digital resources, offering them a glimpse into the world of higher education and research. Their excitement grew as they explored the diverse learning spaces and discovered how knowledge is organized, preserved, and accessed.

The young visitors displayed remarkable inquisitiveness, engaging actively with library staff and asking insightful questions about library services, information resources, and the role of libraries in supporting academic excellence. They were particularly fascinated to learn how students, scholars, and researchers utilize these resources to generate new ideas and advance knowledge.

The interaction provided a meaningful learning experience, fostering curiosity, critical thinking, and a deeper appreciation for reading and research. Through engaging discussions and guided exploration, the library staff inspired the students to view libraries not merely as collections of books, but as dynamic centers of discovery, innovation, and lifelong learning. The visit left the young learners motivated to explore new horizons and embrace the endless opportunities that knowledge can offer.
