Five-Day Faculty Development Program on e-Content and MOOCs by Shri Guru Ram Rai University's IQAC"

Shri Guru Ram Rai University's Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) has successfully concluded a comprehensive Five-Day Faculty Development Program (FDP) on “Development of e-Content and MOOCs,” held from November 16 to November 20, 2023. The FDP was aimed at equipping faculty members with the necessary skills and knowledge to develop high-quality electronic content and Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs), reflecting the growing importance of digital learning in today's educational landscape.

Key Highlights of the FDP:

Renowned Experts: The sessions were led by distinguished experts in the field of digital education, including Dr. Ajay Semalty, Dr. Mona Semalty, Dr. Lokesh Adhikari, and Dr. Ramesh Badoni and Ms Jessie Velusamy . Their expertise provided invaluable insights and practical guidance.

Focus on e-Content Development: The FDP emphasized the importance of creating engaging and effective e-content for digital learning platforms. This included discussions on various tools and methodologies for developing high-quality digital resources.

MOOCs Creation: The program also covered the design and development of MOOCs, which are becoming increasingly popular in higher education. The experts shared best practices and strategies for creating MOOCs that are both informative and accessible to a broad audience.

Hands-on Training: The sessions were highly interactive, with hands-on training that allowed participants to directly apply the techniques and tools discussed. This practical approach ensured that faculty members could readily integrate these skills into their teaching methods.

Enhancing Digital Literacy: The FDP was a step towards enhancing the digital literacy of the faculty, equipping them to meet the challenges of the modern educational environment where digital platforms play a crucial role.

Interdisciplinary Participation: Faculty members from various departments and disciplines participated in the program, highlighting its relevance across different fields of study.

Outcome-Oriented Approach: The aim of the FDP was to enable faculty members to develop and deliver high-quality digital content and courses, thereby enhancing the overall quality of education offered by the university.

The successful execution of this Faculty Development Programme by Shri Guru Ram Rai University's IQAC marks a significant advancement in the university's efforts to stay at the forefront of educational innovation. By focusing on the development of e-Content and MOOCs, the university has demonstrated its commitment to adopting cutting-edge educational technologies and methodologies, thus enriching the learning experience for its students.
